

Editing Caption writing exercise

DIRECTIONS: Below is some information for a caption that the photographer, Pete Ellis, obtained while out taking pictures. However, the photographer had to run out and take another picture and left you with the task of writing the caption. If there are unanswered questions, make note of them below. You're writing a caption for the Jan. 29 edition of the newspaper.

Who: Andy Petters, political science senior

What: cheering

When: The Big Event, Jan. 28, 2004

Where: Reynolds

Why: Petters said the score of the game would be 100-0 in favor of State and he just came to support the team. There were approximately 1,100 people at the event. It was sponsored by Campus Recreational Services. They gave away flashlights, hats, can holders, cup warmers and even a free airline ticket. It was won by Jon Zarsky. UNC won the game. "UNC didn't really win that game," Petters said. "We lost it. We had plenty of opportunities to win. But I still loved every minute of it and would come back for more." His friend, Nathan Bullen, also dressed in a chicken hat at The Big Event said he lost his voice screaming so hard. "It was almost as good as a real game. We all had a blast."
